

Are your students on track for college and career readiness?

It's critical to know which students are on track to graduate ready to meet the challenges of college or career and which ones may need additional help.

The earlier in the school year—and, perhaps more importantly, the earlier in a student's academic career—that educators get this information, the more opportunities there are to provide extra support, personalize instruction, and accelerate learning.

Easily determine progress towards ACT and SAT benchmarks as early as sixth grade with Renaissance®.

Researchers at Renaissance have linked Renaissance Star Reading® and Renaissance Star Math® assessments to the ACT college admissions test for English, reading, and mathematics as well as the SAT college admissions test for evidence-based reading and writing (ERW) and mathematics.

Starting in sixth grade, you can enter students' Star assessment scores into our free ACT and SAT benchmark tool to see if they are on track to reach college and career readiness benchmarks on the ACT and the College Board SAT college admissions tests.

Give your students a head start on college and career success with Renaissance Star Assessments®.

Star Assessments, the most comprehensive pre-K–12 interim and formative assessment suite available, give you rich insights into student learning and accurate predictions of future achievement.
